PROFILE

Caroline heads the family law unit in our dispute resolution department. She has vast experience in all areas of family law including contested divorce, guardianship and custody, legitimacy claim, adoption, maintenance and financial arrangements.

She has represented a teenage mother in her claim for guardianship and custody of her illegitimate child of which she has successfully obtained guardianship and custody order for the mother. In representing her clients, she constantly explores appropriate ways to provide practical solutions in resolving family disputes. Caroline also practices in the area of employment and industrial relations. Employers and employees seek her representation in unfair dismissal claims and in defending employment related claims and appeals.

Caroline advises on general dispute resolution, such as debt recovery, securities and stock broking, landlord and tenant disputes, probate and estate administration. She has successfully represented a management corporation in recovery of arrears of maintenance charges from defaulting proprietors involving the legal interpretation of a proprietor and defending appeals brought by property owners.
